

Practical Research Training Registration

This training will give you a theoretical understanding of research, types of research, the scientific research method, how to determine your research question and hypothesis as well as a fundamental understanding of statistical analyses and how to read and interpret statistical analysis. It will also provide an understanding of the application of the research: how to interpret the new LAF, interview skills, and observational skills during an interview or meeting. It also addresses issues of bias especially in interviewing as well as provide information for proper research sources, teach proper referencing and improve holistic nutrition knowledge by indicating how to find the good information. Once completed, attendees are qualified for paid writing assignments for CAHN-Pro. Include practical assignments to gain experience.

Training is offered Live over WebEx over 4 Mondays in January and February (recordings are available as back-up)

January 16th, 23rd, 30th, and February 6th 2012 from 6:00 pm – 9:00 pm EST.
